

The Five Principles of Positive Parenting

By: Rebecca Eanes www.creativechild.com

The foundation of Positive Parenting rests on five principles. These principles go hand in hand to help you build a strong bond with your children and to position you as the effective leader your child needs throughout childhood.

Principle # 1: Attachment

To develop a strong attachment, trust is essential. When they feel we are for them, not against them; when they feel we are safe to run to; and when they feel that they are loved and valued, we will have their hearts.

Principle # 2: Respect

Children learn how to show respect best by living it. We respect a child's mind when we develop a secure attachment and when we are positive and affirming.

Principle #3: Proactive Parenting

Proactive parenting means building the relationship and allotting sufficient time for play and connection each day. It also means responding rather than reacting to our children's behaviors.

Principle # 4: Empathetic Leadership

Empathy is an important part of leadership because it draws us closer and provides that important attachment.

Principle # 5: Positive Discipline

Positive discipline moves beyond punishment and toward problem-solving. Children do not learn life lessons with their noses in a corner. It holds them accountable by teaching them how to own up to and fix their mistakes.

Pixie Butterflies

We have been busy exploring our five senses. Tasting sour lemons, seeing flowers change colors, making sandy playdough and using our listening ears. We will begin our shape theme this month. As we begin our shapes, we will be lacing hearts and creating a special heart shape surprise for our families. Be sure to have fun with your own shape exploration at home.

-Ms. Stacy & Ms. Stephanie

Elf Butterflies

We will be working on the letter I and our letters of the week this month, while still incorporating and reinforcing how to regulate and respond to our emotions appropriately. Problem-solving skills are increasingly being demonstrated among peers. We are proud of them! Much love.

-Ms. Jessica & Ms. Beryl

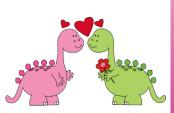

Julia Butterflies

This month our class will work on letters, numbers, shapes, and continue with fine motor skills. Our class will celebrate and talk about Valentine's Day, we are asking each child to bring in valentine cards to share with their friends on Wednesday, February 14th. Please only include your child's name on the back of the cards. Thank you!

-Ms. Vicky & Ms. Naomi

Buttercup Butterflies

This month we will talk about lots of very fun things! We will learn about Valentine's Day and different artists. We will also practice writing and recognizing the letters in our names.

-Ms. Paige & Ms. Lauren

Dissolving Candy Hearts Experience

You are going to love this experiment! This simple experiment takes only 2 minutes to set-up and is super fun.

Here's what you'll need:

Water
Oil
Vinegar
Lemon Juice
Candy Hearts
Timer/Stopwatch

- 1. Fill 4 cups up with the same amount of liquid in each glass.
- 2. Place the candy hearts in a bowl near the glasses for easy access.
- 3. Make your predictions as to which liquid will make the candy heart dissolve the fastest.
- 4. Compare a new candy heart to the size of the dissolved candy heart after 5 minutes.

Pretty cool, huh? There are so many variations to this experiment. You can always change up the liquids, test what happens when you shake the container, change the temperature, and change the candy.
